$60,000 goal set for United Way

The University will seek to raise $60,000 in its annual United Way campaign this year.

The goal represents a 3.4 percent increase over last year's record-breaking contributions of $58,000.

"I think it is a reasonable, attainable goal," said Joseph Spinelli, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and campus campaign chairman this year.

"Once people learn what is really involved, United Way is recognized as a very comprehensive and efficient human service, which helps account for the upward pattern in University employee contributions — from $39,000 in 1980 to $41,000 in 1981, then topping the $50,000 level for the first time in 1982, followed by last year's record."

United Way
People Helping People

Dr. Spinelli said a large contingent of team captains and solicitors has been organized in an attempt to ensure one-on-one invitations to every prospective donor. The solicitors will explain how United Way's 73 agencies and the Red Cross benefit thousands of residents in Wood, Ottawa, Lucas and eastern Fulton counties, he said, adding that the key to this solicitation phase is the "outstanding volunteer training program" organized by G.R. "Dick" Horton, technology, and several graduate students. That volunteer orientation program has been adopted by other institutions, including Ohio State and Ohio universities.

Dr. Spinelli noted that the success of this year's campaign will depend largely on the solicitors' ability to increase the number of faculty and staff who contribute to United Way, adding that he believes this can be accomplished because there are more employees this year than last and average income has increased. Last year 906 faculty and staff contributed to the campaign, compared to 889 in 1982.

It also is expected that the average gift will increase as it has over the past two years when it has gone from $59 to $64.

Assisting Dr. Spinelli on the campaign steering committee this year are Robert K. Clark, speech communication; David Drury, public relations; Marie Hodge, business administration; Dr. Horton; Ralph Olson, cooperative education; James Sharp, University Union; Marie Cisterino, United Way of Greater Toledo, and Janet Metzger Knappe of Knappe Designs of Bowling Green, sponsored by Sheller-Globe.

Area captains for the campaign are Ralph W. Frank, Virginia Starr, Linda Crawford, Susan Gavron, Ann Bowers, Evron Collins, Jean Yarnell, Josie Perez, Monna Pugh, Robert Dudley, Sharon Stuart, Terry Parsons, Bud Lane, Lorens Malanowski, Tom Bennett and Diana Shamp.

Margretta Verteletsky of Monterrey, Calif., was among alumni who participated in the annual "Alumni-Faculty Day" on Friday, Sept. 28. Verteletsky, a supervisory training instructor for the Defense Language Institute, taught a session of Russian 201 for the day. Fifty-three alumni from across the country participated in the Alumni-Faculty Day program, returning to campus to speak to students about their careers and discuss topics related to their area of expertise.

Plans now underway for 75th anniversary

The University's 75th anniversary will be celebrated during the 1985-86 academic year, and a special planning committee is now hard at work developing a series of activities to commemorate Bowling Green's founding in 1910.

Larry Weiss, alumni affairs, chairs the 75th anniversary planning committee. According to Weiss, the year-long observation will be planned to highlight the University's past as well as its academic purpose and its future.

Although a few special programs will be planned, including an academic convocation on Nov. 10, 1985, the official anniversary date of the University's chartering, Weiss said that much of the anniversary celebration will be incorporated into existing programs and events. For example, all activities for the 1985 Homecoming will center around the anniversary theme.

A subcommittee, chaired by Mark Kelly, music, is already attempting to identify campus events planned during the 1985-86 academic year and how those events could best be tied to the 75th anniversary celebration. Any unit within the University planning a 1985-86 event with a format that could be used to observe the anniversary is urged to contact Kelly so the event can be included in the official 75th anniversary calendar.

Weiss also noted that in addition to the University's anniversary activities, special attention will be given to the College of Education, the University's first college, and the College of Business Administration, which will be observing its 50th anniversary in 1986.

The 1985 general faculty meeting at which the president will deliver his "State of the University" address has been designated the official beginning of the anniversary year. The Bowling Green Sentinel Tribune's annual "Back to College" edition, which coincides with that meeting, will highlight the accomplishments of the University.

In addition to the Homecoming celebration and the Nov. 10 academic convocation, a major social event involving the campus and city communities is being planned for the spring.

The year-long celebration will conclude with the May 10, 1986, commencement.

Stuart Givens, history, is writing an updated version of the University's history. His book will be a sequel to the late James Robert Overman's History of Bowling Green State University which covers the years from 1910 to 1963.

The planning committee also has authorized the development of a special anniversary logo and slogan to appear on University publications and any other items where a logo is considered appropriate. Special 75th anniversary stationery for University-wide use is also being planned for the 1985-86 year.

To involve the campus community in the development of a logo, a campus-wide contest is currently underway. Anyone wishing to submit a logo, incorporating the number "75" and a variation of the initials "BGSU," should do so before the Oct. 15 deadline.

Also planned is an oral history project through which advanced undergraduates and graduate students will conduct interviews with former students, faculty, trustees and others who have special knowledge about the development of Bowling Green and its programs.

Weiss said the planning committee will meet regularly during the current academic year to plan events and other ways to commemorate the 75th anniversary and will announce all of its plans in MONITOR. He also said the committee will welcome suggestions and ideas from the campus community.

Members of the 75th anniversary

Nowak wins top conducting prize

The 33-year-old conductor of the University's Philharmonia has swept awards in international music competition.

Grzegorz Nowak won the top prize for conductors at the 40th International Competition for Music Performers in Geneva, Switzerland.

He was the winner of the Ernest Ansermet Competition for Orchestral Direction and in addition won the Swiss Prize, the Grand Prix Patek Philippe, the Rolex Prize, the Boulez Prize and the American Mecene Prize at the Geneva competition.

Nowak conducted the famed Orchestre de la Suisse Romande in the closing concert of the competition, presented in honor of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the orchestra's founder, Ernest Ansermet. The concert was broadcast live by Radio Television de la Suisse Romande and was recorded for future distribution to 500 radio stations worldwide.

"It has certainly been the highlight of my career," Nowak said upon returning to campus last week. "My prizes in Geneva have started the beginning of a new chapter."

As a result of his brilliant performances in the competition, Nowak has been awarded a recording date with the Orchestre de la Suisse Romande in 1986 and engagements with the Lisbon Symphony in Portugal and the London Symphony. The London engagement will include a recording to be released by EMI Records.

"Conducting the London Symphony is certainly the most prestigious of my engagements," Nowak said. He plans to spend a week in London at the end of November to record "Dance Suite" by Bela Bartok, the first and second suite from "Daphnis et Chloe" by Maurice Ravel and "Roman Carnival Overture" by Hector Berlioz.

He also has been engaged to appear at several major European music festivals, including the Menuhin Festival and those in Antibes and Cannes. A Carnegie Hall appearance is on his calendar for October 1985, and he will conduct the London Symphony during its 1987 U.S. tour.

COMPUTERS ON SALE. Approximately 70 faculty and staff have already registered for product overview seminars being sponsored by University Computer Services as part of a program which allows University personnel to purchase microcomputers at a discount.

The seminars will continue to be conducted at 9 and 10:30 a.m. daily in 104 Hayes Hall. Anyone considering purchase of an Apple or IBM microcomputer system should call 372-2911 to register for one of the information sessions.

RETIREMENT DEADLINE NEAR. Oct. 31 is the end of the open application period for faculty who wish to participate in the STRS Early Retirement ("buy-out") Program for retirement in 1985.

For applications received on or before Oct. 31, the order of eligibility will be based on years of service at the University. If fewer than five percent of STRS members (approximately 60) apply by Oct. 31, the deadline will be extended until the maximum number of eligible participants is reached.

For further information on the program, refer to the May 4, 1984, guidelines mailed to all faculty or contact Elton Ringer (372-0491) or Norma Stickler (372-2915).

Faculty Senate

Faculty Senate recommended a new Employee Solicitation Policy to the administration at its meeting Oct. 2.

The policy, drafted by a faculty committee chaired by David Roller, history, was approved by Senate despite some concern from senators who indicated that it retains some of the "heavy-handedness" of the policy currently in force. That policy was drafted last year by University legal counsel and has been the topic of considerable debate since its publication as official policy.

The faculty committee, appointed by the Senate Executive Committee last spring, was charged with formulating a new policy during the summer months. Members of that committee, in addition to Dr. Roller, were Ronald Stoner, physics and astronomy; Alice Heim Calderonello, English; Donald Boren, legal studies, and Trevor Phillips, educational foundations and inquiry.

Dr. Roller reviewed the committee's deliberation on the existing policy, noting that members believe it is too "global in its language," that it's literal interpretation is too negative and that the Office of the President is too extensively involved in enforcing the policy.

"We sought to write a policy which protects what is essential about the University rather than one which prohibits what we do not like," he said.

The policy recommended by Senate is published below:

SOLICITATION POLICY

Recommended by the Ad Hoc Committee

PREFACE

This policy is framed to permit all Bowling Green State University employees to perform their jobs free from intrusions and to ensure that the mission of the University shall proceed unhampered. It also is recognized, however, that the atmosphere of a University requires "academic freedom, the full freedom of speech, freedom to teach, to learn, and to conduct inquiry in a spirit of openness necessary to the acceptance of criticism, the expression of differing opinions and the pursuit of truth" (Article I, 1. of the Academic Charter). Furthermore, "all members of the University Community and the Trustees have legitimate concerns about all aspects of the University" (Article I) and "the people who create and maintain the University constitute the University Community" (students, faculty, administrative staff, classified staff, administration).

DEFINITIONS

1. Working time: Those hours during which faculty employees are engaged in the primary University function for which they were hired. Classified and administrative staff working time shall mean accepted work-shift, or hours during which employees are engaged in the primary function for which they were employed.

2. Internal organization: Any organization or association made up exclusively of University employees. Local affiliation with a regional, state, or national organization shall not preclude a University group being defined as an internal organization.

3. External organization: Any organization or association of individuals that is not made up exclusively of University employees.

4. Solicitation: Any activity which is designed to advertise, promote or sell any product or commercial service, or encourage support for or membership in any group, association or organization.

I. Disruption of working time

A person's ability to perform his or her duties while engaged in the primary University function for which she or he was hired shall not be impaired by any activity conducted for the purpose of advertising, promoting, or selling any product or commercial service or for encouraging or being encouraged to join any group, association, or organization.

II. Use of facilities

(a) campus mail

The internal campus mail system is for the exclusive use of the University and any organization sponsored by (or affiliated with) the University or made up exclusively of students or University employees (whether or not affiliated with state or national societies or associations). No commercial use shall be made of the campus mail system.

(b) space

Any organization or individual who wishes to use University space to advertise, promote or sell any product or commercial service or who wishes to encourage membership in any group, association or organization, must obtain authorization of the person or office (e.g., the Space Assignments Office) responsible for that space or facility. Normally, requests to reserve or have access to University space must be filed 48 hours prior to a meeting or visit. The request must state:

- the purpose of the proposed visit; and
- the name of any person(s) or alternates who desire access to the campus.

The Office of Space Assignments will attempt to locate a designated area for use by the non-employee or organization submitting the request and will then issue a permit designating the room and the date and time it may be used. If two or more requests for access to a designated area for the same or overlapping times have been made, the University will attempt to provide alternate designated areas. If no alternate designated area is available, the University will grant access to the available designated area on a rotating basis with equal time for its use. If the designated areas are unavailable due to a prior reservation, then the University will immediately notify the requesting party of such conflict.

(c) bulletin boards or other public access areas

Any employee may post notices or other appropriate information on designated employee bulletin boards or other designated public access areas.

If the notice contains information about an on-campus meeting during which a product or commercial service is to be advertised, promoted or sold or during which membership in a group, association, or organization shall be advocated, the notice shall be consistent with (in terms of designated area, time and date) the permission granted to the organization.

III. Distribution of literature

Distribution of literature by any external organization or non-employee within any building on campus shall be limited to public access or to other designated areas reserved according to procedures described above in II, b (Space).

IV. Violations

Any visitor who violates this policy may be denied use of University facilities for up to one year. Any employee who violates this policy may be disciplined under the conditions and in accordance with the procedures established by and published within the appropriate employee handbook.

Senate also received a report from the Committee on Implementation of a Faculty Development Center. That committee has suggested naming the facility the Center for Instructional Development.

The proposal will be debated at the next Senate meeting in November.

Also discussed were proposed new University-wide general education requirements. A policy approved by both Undergraduate Council and the Senate's Academic Policies Committee was presented for Senate approval.

The proposed policy would require that all students who enroll at the University beginning next fall complete eight general education courses, in addition to the University's English and mathematics requirement, before graduation.

The eight courses would be selected from those which have been grouped by the University-wide Committee on General Education, chaired by Beth Casey, Center for Educational Options, into four "functional understandings:" humanities and the arts; natural sciences; social and behavioral sciences; foreign language and multi-cultural studies. Undergraduate Council has recommended that students must select at least one course from each of those four areas, with college councils left to determine the exact mix.

Dr. Casey noted that all courses included in the general studies core have been reviewed by faculty representing all colleges to determine whether they reinforce one or more of five basic skills. Those skills were identified by Academic Council in 1979 as reading and writing; critical thinking and problem solving; decision-making and values analysis; computation and mathematics, and speaking and listening.

Discussion on the proposed requirements will continue at the next Senate meeting.

In other business, Senate heard a report from Genevieve Stang, educational foundations and inquiry, representing the Faculty Welfare Committee, on the STRS "buy-out" program.

Dr. Stang reported that 20 faculty have elected to retire during the current calendar year, including 16 who will retire at the end of this semester. Only two departments will have more than one faculty member retiring this year, she said.

She added that 11 faculty had indicated their intent to retire during calendar year 1985 as of last week. The deadline to apply for the "buy-out" program in 1985 is Oct. 31, 1984.

Dr. Stang also reported on three salary studies which the FWC will undertake this year and asked faculty to forward their concerns to the FWC.

Jan Schnupp-Lee, educational curriculum and instruction, representing the Committee on Committees, noted that since July 10, 25 faculty have resigned from committees to which they had been elected or appointed and those vacancies must be filled.

Faculty & Staff

Presentations

Dorothy Behling, home economics, presented a paper entitled "Fashion Change — A Model" at the Popular Culture Conference Oct. 6-7 in Bloomington, Ind.

She also presented a paper entitled "A Comparison of Undergraduate Women Majoring in Fashion Merchandising and Marketing" at the annual conference of the American Association of Professors of Textiles and Clothing Oct. 25-27 at the University of Tennessee. At the same conference she will chair a panel on "Technology and Its Effects on the Textile and Clothing Field."

Carole Bradford, romance languages, presented a paper on "Modern Woman's Dialogue with Her Past in the Novels of Montserrat Roig" at the annual meeting of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese in Mexico City in August.

At the same conference, Mercedes Junquera-Early, romance languages, presented a paper entitled "La imagen de la ciudad en Garcia Lorca."

Vincent Corrigan, music theory/history, presented a paper on "The Rhythm of Pre-Notre Dame Polyphony" at a meeting of the Midwest Chapter of the American Musicological Society Sept. 22.

Andrew M.W. Glass, mathematics and statistics, presented two invited addresses in Europe and another in the United States during the summer. He spoke on "The word problem for lattice-ordered groups" at Albert-Ludwigs

University, Freiburg, West Germany; "Combinatorial lattice-ordered group theory" at the First International Symposium on Ordered Algebraic Structures at Luminy, France, and "The word and isomorphism problems in universal algebra" at the International Meeting on Universal Algebra and Lattice Theory at Charleston, S.C.

Arjun K. Gupta, mathematics and statistics, and Jen Tang presented a paper "On Testing Equality of Generalized Variances of k Multivariate Normal Populations" at the annual meeting of the American Statistical Association Aug. 13-16 in Philadelphia. Doctoral student Terry Logan also presented a paper entitled "Discriminant Analysis by Multiple Observations."

Dennis Hale, journalism, was a member of a panel discussing "Nontraditional Legal Research in Mass Communication" at the convention of the Association for Education in Journalism. He also presented a paper, "Chains Versus Independents: Newspaper and Market Characteristics," at the convention.

Jack Hayden, mathematics and statistics, presented a paper entitled "Algebras and Character Theory for Finite Projective Planes" as part of the annual Dennison Math Conference May 12 at Kent State University.

Eldon E. Snyder, sociology, presented a paper, "The Chautauqua Movement and Popular Culture: A Sociological Analysis," at the Chautauqua Symposium Sept. 13 at Adrian College.

THINK SNOW. Faculty and staff are invited to ski along when the UAO and Echo Travel offer their annual Steamboat Springs, Colo., trip over Christmas break.

The trip begins Jan. 5 and returns Jan. 14. The cost is $270 per person for round-trip bus ride, accommodations in condominium complexes and ski lift tickets.

A special "land only" price of $185 is also available to non-students who wish to provide their own transportation.

Reservations are being taken now in the UAO office, third floor, University Union. A $100 deposit is required at the time of sign-up.

For more information call UAO at 372-2343.

GOOD SEATS GOING FAST. All $11 chairback seats for the Nov. 10 Parents Day performance by Doc Severinsen have been sold out, but good seats still remain for the show.

Bleacher seats in the $8 and $5 price range are on sale now. Tickets may be ordered by mailing a check (add $1 for postage and handling with each order) to: Doc Severinsen Show, Mileti Alumni Center. Checks should be made payable to the BGSU Alumni Association.

Ellen Wells (left), chief of special collections for the Smithsonian Institution Libraries, has given the University her personal collection of works by artist/illustrator Max Parrish. Above, she surveys the collection with David Marks, director of the Popular Culture Library.

Parrish collection adds color to Popular Culture Library

A collection of works by Max Parrish, an artist/illustrator who has been called "the Norman Rockwell of his time," has been donated to the University's Popular Culture Library.

Ellen Wells, chief of special collections for the Smithsonian Institution Libraries, has given the University her personal collection of Parrish works. She delivered the collection to the Jerome Library last week and was honored at a reception in the Popular Culture Library.

This is Wells' second major donation to the University. In 1978 she gave to the Popular Culture Library a collection of 98 books by Indiana writer James Whitcomb Riley.

According to David Marks, director of the Popular Culture Library, Wells chose the University as the permanent home for both the Riley and Parrish collections because of the international reputation of both its Popular Culture Library and popular culture department. An avid collector in many areas, Wells also is a personal friend of Patricia Salomon, library acquisitions.

The new collection fills a major gap in the Popular Culture Library's holdings, Dr. Marks said, noting, "We had very few Max Parrish holdings. His role as a major figure in popular culture study is undisputed, and we are fortunate to have acquired such a collection."

It is the diversity of the collection which makes it so valuable, Dr. Marks said. It includes covers from such magazines as Colliers, Ladies Home

Journal and Life, as well as books, pamphlets, portfolios, prints, playing cards, jigsaw puzzles and calendars for which Parrish supplied the art.

Born in 1870, Parrish was at the height of his fame during the 1920s and 1930s when he was the most popular and best paid commercial artist in the United States. He is perhaps most widely known for his advertising illustrations for such products as Fisk Tires and Jell-O. He died in 1966, shortly after his work began enjoying renewed popularity.

The collection which has been donated to the University will be housed either in the Rare Books or Popular Culture libraries, Dr. Marks said, adding that it will be accessible to library patrons.

Funds available for undergraduate research

For the third consecutive year, funds have been made available by the Alumni Association and Parents Club for the support of research projects conducted by undergraduate students.

The Undergraduate Research Program will provide up to $500 for support of a limited number of independent student research projects. Projects must be sponsored by a participating department and supervised by a faculty adviser.

The competition is open to any undergraduate student who has completed 30 or more semester hours and has accumulated a minimum grade point average of 3.0.

Homecoming events include Honorary Alumnus dinner

Faculty and staff are invited to count themselves among the alumni for Homecoming festivities planned this weekend (Oct. 12-13).

The highlight of the weekend will be a 1 p.m. football game with Western Michigan on Saturday, followed by a reception in the Alumni Center.

The festivities will actually begin, however, with a dinner Friday evening in the Community Suite of the Union when Iris Andrews, emeritus, physical education and recreation, and Don Wolfe, columnist for the Toledo Blade, will be named "Honorary Alumni."

Andrews, who retired in 1977 after 32 years on the physical education and recreation faculty, was best known on campus as director of the annual Swan Club synchronized swim show which she produced for 30 years. She still resides in Bowling Green.

Wolfe, a leading journalist in northwest Ohio since 1935, is assistant managing editor of the Toledo Blade. At the University he serves on the Advisory Committee to Education. In 1983 he received a "Friend of the College of Education" award.

Reservations for the Friday dinner will be accepted until Tuesday (Oct. 9). Those interested in attending should contact the Mileti Alumni Center. The cost is $10 per person. A cash-bar cocktail party at 6:30 p.m. will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

On Saturday morning, faculty and staff are invited to meet with former students beginning at 9 a.m. in the Alumni Center. Pre-game festivities will begin at 10:30 a.m. "under the Big Top" on the intramural fields between the Alumni Center and Ice Arena. The Alumni Association is setting up a large tent in the fields, and there will be a live band and refreshments provided.

Tickets for the football game will be available the day of the game and may also be purchased in advance from the Memorial Hall ticket office. Reserved seats are priced at $7 and $6. General admission seats are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Arla Dalglish

She gave information 'with a smile'

Her name may be unfamiliar, but her face is known to hundreds of students, faculty and University guests alike.

Arla Dalglish, a clerk at the Union Information Desk, sold magazines, newspapers and candy, cashed checks and registered hotel guests in the University Union. On Friday, Sept. 28, she retired after 19 years of service to the University.

Her job requires patience and a lot of smiles, and she acknowledged that an average work day can be very hectic. All the same, she says she loves the University and her co-workers and will greatly miss her job.

"I love the young people here. They always treated me with a smile and made me feel good and warm inside. They kept me young by keeping me alert," she said.

But she is looking forward to retirement.

"Of course I am going to miss the people I work with, but leaving will give me a chance to enjoy my time while I still have my health," she said.

Arla plans to spend that time enjoying her family, which includes nine grandchildren. She wants to take a trip to Hawaii and eventually hopes to pursue classes in ceramics and exercise.

Before joining the University staff, Arla was a local beautician. She also lived in California for a while, where she was a delicatessen manager. She currently resides in Pemberville.

Monitor

Monitor is published weekly for faculty and staff of Bowling Green State University. The deadline to submit material for the next issue, Monday, Oct. 15, is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 9.

INSURANCE 'OPEN.' October is the annual "open period" during which full-time employees can enroll in the University's hospitalization insurance program or convert from single to family coverage. All changes and new applications become effective Dec. 1, 1984.

Employees who desire new applications or changes in their coverage should contact the Insurance Office, 372-2112.

IMC STOCKS LAMPS. The Instructional Media Center stocks and supplies lamps for all kinds of audio visual equipment on campus.

Because the lamps are purchased in large quantities, considerable cost savings can be achieved by obtaining them through IMC. Arrangements can also be made for stocking special types of lamps.

To obtain a lamp or place a special order, contact George Cripe, 109 Education Bldg. (372-2881). An orange University charge card must be presented at the time of purchase.

PROTECT YOUR CHILDREN. For the next four Saturdays, the University Police will be fingerprinting the children of University employees as part of "Crime Prevention Month" activities.

The "Fingerprinting Children Project" will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Saturday through Nov. 3 in the Forum of the Student Services Building.

There is no charge to have a child fingerprinted, and the fingerprint card will be given to the parents for safekeeping. In addition, parents will receive a checklist of safety measures they should take which will assist the police if their child should be found missing.

Rate changes for vacation accrual

Effective in October 1984, the rate at which vacation is accrued by continuing classified staff will change.

The accrual rate per pay period will increase at the beginning of the eighth, 15th and 25th years of service rather than at the completion of those years. An explanation of the method of accrual is found on pages 18-19 in the Classified Staff Handbook.

All employees affected by this change between October 1984 and September 1985 will receive a letter to explain their individual increase.

Questions should be directed to the Office of Personnel Support Services, 372-0421.

It was "Classified Staff Recognition Day" at the football game Sept. 29 when the Falcons met and beat Eastern Michigan. Among the events planned as part of the day was a tailgate party, complete with boxed lunch, preceding the game. Several prizes also were raffled (see story below).

Classified staff win prizes at 'Recognition Day' event

Fourteen classified staff are winners in raffles conducted as part of "Classified Staff Recognition Day" Sept. 29. The winners are as follows:

Alice Hagemeyer, budgets and capital planning, $35 membership to the Falcon Club; Sharon Ernsthausen, bursar's office, two tickets to the Parents Day Doc Severinsen concert; Sharon Biggins, plant operations and maintenance, basketball tickets; Betty Firsdon, plant operations and maintenance, Marsha Hartz, sociology, and Pamela Scott, public safety, bench cushions.

Also, Sue Kerr, registration and records, lunch for two at the Bowl-n-Greenery; Nancy Green, health, physical education and recreation, dinner for two at the Berries in Harshman Quadrangle; Diane Whitmire, public relations, dinner for two at Towers Inn in McDonald Quadrangle.

Also, Beverly Cope, international programs, a University Bookstore gift certificate; Doris Chamberlain, residence life, Linda Glomski, journalism, Richard Micel, groundskeeper, and Alyce Platz, health, physical education and recreation, rain panchos.

The Classified Staff Advisory Committee congratulates all winners and thanks all sponsors for making the raffle prizes available.
